“When gazing up at the night sky, it is not you that sees the universe, but the universe seeing itself in human-form.”

Event Description

The Earth is a cradle for humanity, but we can't live in it forever. You look at the night sky, and have a ton of questions. Is there life out there? How did the universe come into existence? What do black holes look like? How much of a science geek are you? Come find out with our game of Space Odyssey! As you step up every square, seal your zeal for space!

Event Format

- This is a space related quiz event constituting a banner with squares, similar to a chess board.
- Firstly, we provide you with a collection of questions from which each participant is required to choose one question.
- Different choices of answers are displayed on a cup placed on the squares. You must inform us about your choice. If you are right, you are required to lift that cup linking you to another question.
- Note that sometimes there may be multiple cups displaying the same answer. In this case, you are required to choose a different cup until you find the question.
- The whole point of this is raising up the banner with each question you answer similar to a snake and ladder game.
- You must do this repeatedly and go up the banner until you fail to answer a question.
- The one who finds the five questions within the given time will be the winner.

- Unlike other events, in Space Odyssey, multiple winners are allowed.

Rules

- 1) Maximum people in a team: 1 - 3
- 2) Life doesn't give you a second chance but Space Odyssey sure does(at a price though)
- 3) You must complete the game within the given time limit.
